According to a law passed by the last session of the legislature, every county in the state must be provided with a hospital properly equipped for the treatment of tubercular diseases. If a county without one of these buildings so desires, it may contract with an adjoining county to take care of its tubercular cases and thus save the expense of creating and equipping a building. But the law provides the work must be done either at home or in an adjoining county. We understand the limit given each county to erect such a building is until January.

The C. H. & D. R. R. has again shown its contempt for Perrysburg and its business interests by refusing to have a telephone in the station at this place. The telephone was a great convenience for business men in particular and the citizens in general, but the railroad company with its customary niggardly methods of public service for this village has refused to supply even this slight accommodation. Perrysburg is certainly entitled to better attention by the C. H. & D. Co. than the village is receiving, and it is high time our village officials were making an effort to compel the company to respect the town. Trains pass through the town at any speed the engineer desires; streets are blocked at will; and in every way the town is given the poorest kind of service. There are certainly some methods that could be adopted by the village authorities to compel the company to take notice of the town.

REPRESENTATIVE REED.

The following article appeared in the Prairie Depot Observer last week: It is always a pleasure to boost for a fellow who does things—an official, who fulfills his promises—So the Observer, the paper at the home of Representative Geo. E. Reed takes pleasure in giving space to the following interview:

"Now that the campaign is on, and your opponent has been selected what will be your position, as compared to your first term?"

I am glad you have given me this opportunity, as it will allow me to talk to many whom I shall not have the pleasure of meeting before the November election. But before we go further, allow me to assure you, THAT I SHALL TAKE NO BACKWARD STEP.

"Feb. 24, 1905, six months before the convention at which I was nominated I issued broadcast over this county, a statement of my position on the questions which were interesting the people. I was nominated on those issues at the largest delegate convention ever held in the county. I was elected in spite of a Democratic landslide and over a very popular opponent. I went to Columbus, nominated and elected upon the pledge to stand squarely for 'County Local Option,' to work for a Salary Law, and to assist in abolishing the pass system to public officials.

"Today it is a source of satisfaction to me to look back over my record and note my promises have been fulfilled to the letter as upon the statute books of Ohio stand laws in line with every pledge made, all supported by my vote.

"This spring I was gratified while at Columbus, attending my duties as Representative, to receive at the hands of the people, through a primary, a nomination for a second term.

"My aim has been to endeavor to inform myself correctly upon the questions of interest to the great mass of people and then to endeavor to do their will. In the great state of Ohio, there are many interests. All striving for supremacy and what is food for one is poison for the other. As your Representative I have tried to keep in mind the needs of those I represent and have endeavored to do that which my conscience and knowledge of conditions suggested as right. From every point in the county, and upon all subjects, I have received letters, offering good suggestions, advice, etc., by which I have been benefited much. These letters and pointers have aided greatly in the passing of legislation. I appreciate them and ask for a continuance of the same.

"It is an honor and pleasure to represent in any position the people of Wood county, and especially is this true in the General Assembly. The people of the county are even-tempered, honorable and law-abiding, not disturbed by turmoil, strife and feuds, either civic or political. Their first pride is their Homes, their Schools and their Churches, and woe be to the man who lends his influence against them.

"My record is as an open book, to be read by all. In voting for and assisting in enacting some 600 laws, all of more or less importance, I may have made some mistakes, but in the main I believe that an investigation will show that my vote was cast on the side which 'would do the greatest good to the greatest number' fully realizing that it is impossible to please all.

"If my service to people during my first term has met with the approval of a majority of the people, I ask for their aid and influence. Again I assure them that I shall take no backward step in great issues of the day."

Election clerks are viewing with dismay the task that will be theirs on November 3. In addition to the several national tickets the ballot of the voter who will step into the polling booth will contain five state tickets and three constitutional amendments. It is going to be an all night job to count the biggest ballot ever handed to the Ohio voter and will be varied enough to answer all purposes.

It is said that some of the Perrysburg citizens are in favor of getting up a petition to annex Perrysburg to Lucas county.—Maumee Advance.

Been having another night mare, Bro. Dickson? Surely nobody from Perrysburg ever made such a remark. The further we could remove Lucas county from Perrysburg, the better our people would be pleased.

The fact that there was no pocket picking or other crimes committed at the unveiling at Ft. Meigs last week, was due to the care and watchfulness of Sheriff Roach and his deputies, who were on the ground early and carefully observed every crook who put in an appearance. They were given ample warning of their undependability and soon went back to Toledo, or other more congenial quarters.

The recent visit of thousands of people to Ft. Meigs from all parts of the United States has been the means of calling attention to this historic point from every State, and it is now reported that other states may erect monuments on the fort in honor of men who assisted in the defense of the northwest territory. Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania may soon take action in the matter.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION

Petition Filed with County Clerk contains 5553 Signatures.

On Wednesday, September 9, the officials of the Local Option League filed petitions with the County Clerk containing the signatures of 5553 voters which is about 60 per cent. of the total vote of the county.

The Commissioners have ordered the election to be held on Monday, October 5, 1908, at the usual hours for holding elections.

LUCAS COUNTY FAIR.

The Lucas County Agricultural Society Fair will be held at Toledo, Sept. 14th to 19th inclusive. This promises to be an excellent fair. Extensive improvements have been made in the grounds, buildings and track. $15,000 in purses and premiums are offered and indications point to the renewal of the days of the old Tri-State Fair.

HER OWN MEDICINE

TABLES NEATLY TURNED ON ONE PRACTICAL JOKER.

Sharp Lesson, However, Unable to Effect a Cure—Possibly There Is Only One Way to Stop These "Humorists."

Are women practical jokers? The question was being discussed by two men who were somewhat interested in psychology, and as the conversation progressed it became less scientific and more cynical. At last the younger man brought it down to a personal basis, proving only one case, but that one quite conclusively.

"My sister," he began, "used to teach in one of those $1,000 a year finishing schools for girls. The name doesn't matter, but you'd recognize it in a minute if I told you. I mentioned my sister to show you how I heard this. Among the teachers there were a half dozen inveterate practical jokers. One was as bad as another, so perhaps none deserved any sympathy. Now, the youngest of them was the instructor in English and, incidentally, a poet of no mean ability. She had been persuaded by her friends to submit her work to a publisher, with the result that a small volume of poems was brought out.

"In this state of affairs one of the clique of which she was a member saw great possibilities. She taught logic, I think. At any rate she had a deductive mind capable of making plans that would work out nicely. So she wrote letters to 15 or 20 of her friends asking them to write to the poet, saying they had read her book with great interest, paying her all the compliments they could think of without seeming insincere, and asking for her autograph."

"After a while the young woman began to receive the letters. Some were from New York, three or four from cities on the Pacific coast, several from England, and one from Constantinople. You can imagine how elated she was.

"One afternoon she received a note from the teacher of logic. It ran something like this:

"Come up to my room for a cup of tea. I have a new picture which no doubt you would like to see."

"The poetess went, and, according to the established custom, walked in without knocking. No one was in the room, but on the wall was the picture. It consisted of a large gilt frame in which were arranged all the replies that she had sent to those who had written letters in praise of her poetry."

"Well, what a trick!" exclaimed the older man. "What did she do?"

"Sat down and cried, naturally."

"It cured her, I guess."

"No. There's only one way to cure a practical joker."

"They say that the only good Indian is a dead Indian, and it's—"

"I believe you're right!"

ARM PULLED OUT

And Torn to Shreds in Clover Huller.

Ollie Karns, aged 22, lost an arm Saturday in a clover huller near Pemberville, says the Sentinel.

Ollie, who is known by the nickname of "Pappy" had driven up with a companion in a rig. Seeing that the regular feeder looked tired, he volunteered to feed a while.

Although experienced in the work, he had scarcely begun before his left arm was caught and drawn into the machine.

Exerting all his strength and will power, he suffered the agonizing pain of having his arm torn into shreds and pulled out of the elbow socket but saved himself from being drawn in.

He displayed the utmost nerve, walking to the buggy alone and never uttering a groan.

Dr. Collier, of Pemberville, dressed the injured member and Karns was taken to the Toledo hospital. He is resting quite comfortably now but has only a four inch stump left to show where his arm was.
